8. On 15 and 22 August 1947, in commemoration of the Japanese surrender and the entry of Soviet troops into Dairen, Chinese Communists in Dairen held meetings for the dissemination of propaganda and demonstrated in the streets. On 22 August 1947 a play was shown depicting "American aggression in China" and "how the Kuomintang is selling China". One scene portrayed the entry of Soviet troops into Dairen. Halfway through the scene on the Soviet entry, Soviet authorities stopped the show. They wished to avoid offending the Japanese who had been retained in Dairen.
